

Name:

Jiwan Bharati

Location:

Pokhara, Nepal

Home town:

Pokhara, Nepal

Mission programme:

Communications and Administration

The Mission Field:

As I am working in administration, my aim is to collate valuable information (mainly to retrieve stories concerning the challenges of church planting and fellowship) and situation faced by Christians. I try to create openness in their hearts so they can feel free to share their stories. These stories are subsequently shared with the HOM Board whereby the board will be able to assess the situation and address the difficulties.

My Mission Calling:

To reach people from the Tibetan tribes and to minister among communities in the north.

My Role:

Collecting information from working sites and coordinating short trips.

My Story:

I was born into a Christian family; attended the church fellowship and Saturday school service where I received knowledge of God's character and His plan in our lives.

Things changed when my father got sick and was in hospital for a month. It was a big challenge and I had to ask "Why did this happen? Even when my father was working for the Lord?"

I was also planning to work with my father as I have seen how God was moving with his mission work. So after I completed my secondary education, I joined DTS school and work for three years as staff and student. I learnt about the Bible and many cultures there. Then in 2008, I moved to HOM Nepal as an office assistant.

Now I am also engaged with the local church youth and preteen class and am also able to share challenging stories from my own life.
